Choosing a new fence is an investment in your home's security and curb appeal. Every property is different, so several factors can affect the final price.

Existing Fence Removal: Removing an old fence adds labour and disposal costs. In some cases, homeowners may choose to complete part of the removal themselves.

Bedrock & Tree Roots: Rock, roots, and other underground obstacles can require additional labour or specialized installation methods.

Sloped Yards: Sloped properties may require stepped or custom-cut fence panels, depending on the terrain and fence style.

Gates: The number, size, and style of gates affect pricing because each requires additional framing, hardware, and installation.

Custom Design: Privacy height, decorative finishes, custom layouts, and other design choices can affect the final cost.

Reinforcement: Some fence installations require additional reinforcement for strength and stability. For metal fences, steel ties can provide an effective, more economical solution in certain conditions.

Accurate pricing starts with understanding your property. That's why we prefer to meet with you on-site, discuss your needs, and provide a detailed quote based on your specific project.
